Abstract

Explores and identifies various needs of SSIs in north east region (NER), to understand the problems they face in terms of lack of information, infrastuctural support, liaisoning with main stream as well as international markets and to design a model for an information village. To facilitate a vibrant and dynamic industrial as well as socio-economic development in the entire NER, the study came up with information models which operate at different levels (State-wise as well as district-wise) and also manages the required information at all levels through information communication and technology.
