

CHAPTER 48

SOCIAL WORK

Ph.D. Theses

460. ABRAHAM (P. F.)
Employee Assistance Programme in Select Industrial Organisations.
Supervisor : Prof. Sanjai Bhatt
Th 15427

Abstract

Studies the relevance of social work practice in the industry and created indigenous contribution to the body of knowledge. By introducing new intervention methods the profession is exploring and experimenting different areas of social work practice in the country. Also portrays the various dimensions of Occupational social work and its relevance to Indian organisations, thereby adding a new chapter to the knowledge base of the profession. Employee Assistance Programme (EAP) a new area of social work finds relevance in the world of work in India.

Contents

1. Design of Research 2. Employees assistance programme (EAP) : An introduction 3. Review of literature 4. EA & Social work profession : Rationale and response 5. Industrial scenario in India and profile of the select industrial organisations 6. EAP service providers and programme promoters 7. EAP beneficiaries : Profile perceptions and programme impact 8. Conclusions, suggestions and References.

461. ANTONY (Beena)
Examination Stress and Behavioural Manifestations among School Students.
Supervisor : Dr. Tomy Philip
Th 15426

Abstract

Studies the phenomenon of examination stress and its manifestations. Also intends to describe the role played by study habits, parental expectations, family environment and aspirations of the individual student. Examines the impact of parental help and support during examination on the anxiety of students.

Contents

1. An Introduction to examination stress 2. Examination stress : A review of literature 3. Research methodology 4. Extent of examination stress and factors contributing to examination stress 5. Manifestations of examinations stress and coping strategies used by students 6. Social work intervention 7. Summary of findings, Suggestions and References.

462. NALINI (R.)
Social work Practice in Industry : A Study of Select Industrial Organizations of the Tata Group.
 Supervisors : Dr. Sanjai Bhatt
 Th 15495

Abstract

Discusses various dimension of the social work practice in industrial organizations. Different aspect of social workers engagement in Indian industries (Particularly in Tata group of industries) were explored. Social work practice in industrial organizations in India and other industrialized countries has been presented. The profile, perspectives and practice of select industrial organizations of the Tata group have also been discussed. Study includes senior management personnel, trade union leaders and colleagues (especially performing similar kind of jobs as PSWs) and employee beneficiaries.

Contents

1. Introduction and research methodology 2. Social work practice in industry - An overview 3. Review of literature 4. Tata group and select industrial organisations : Profile, perspectives and practices 5. Social work professionals and practices in industry 6. Significant others on social work practices in industry 7. Findings 8. Towards well being : Suggestions for strengthening social work practice in industry and References.

463. PANDEY (Neena)
Atrocities on Women and the role Police in Delhi : A study from Social Work Perspective.
 Supervisor : Prof. Aruna Bhardwaj
 Th 15428

Abstract

Studies the qualitative nuances of the lives encounters and experiences of violence in the closeted boundaries of home and family. It has tried incorporating all i.e. physical, sexual, psychological and economic aspects of abuses and suffering meted out to wives. As the NCRB data reveals that the incidence of torture by husbands and relatives topped the list and it is increasing severely in the present day society.

Contents

1. Introduction 2. Literature review and research methodology 3. Genesis of police service and violence against women 4. Analysis and discussion 5. Case study 6. Summary, Conclusion and References.

464. SAUMYA

Communalisation of Tribals in Chhattisgarh : Processes and Implications.

Supervisor : Dr. Manoj Kumar Jha
Th 15429

Abstract

Attempts to provide a window to peep into the processes and implications of communalization amongst Adivasis in Jashpur. Emphasizes that the campaign against communalism is, in fact, a struggle for the mind of people. There is therefore an urgent need for the people at large and professional social workers in particular to give up their apolitical stand and face the emerging challenges posed by Hindutva brigade. With the shifting targets, they are attacking and denying the human rights of the weak and the powerless which needs to be addressed and checked well in time.

Contents

1. Contours of communalization 2. Review of literature 3. Methodology and field of study 4. Strategies for indoctrination 5. Politico-Economic concerns and inter-community relations 6. Conclusion and suggestions and References.

M.Phil Dissertations

465. CHAUDHARY (Sunita)
Impact of Mental Illness on Functioning of Family Systems :
A Comparative Study of Families having Person with Alcohol
Dependence Syndrome and Schizophrenia.
Supervisor : Dr. Tomy Philip
466. CHAUHAN (Shivani)
Decent Work for Workers in Construction Industry : A Study of Asian Development Bank Assisted Project in the State of Madhya Pradesh, India.
Supervisor : Prof. Sanjai Bhatt
467. FARRUKH FAHEEM
Movements in Protest : A Study of Jammu and Kashmir Liberation Front.
Supervisor : Dr. Manoj Kumar Jha
468. JOSEPH (Manoj)
Inclusive Education for Hearing Impaired : A Case Study.
Supervisor : Dr. Surabhi Aggarwal
469. MANJU
Utilization of Reproductive Health Services by the Women in an Urban Slum of Delhi.
Supervisor : Dr. Surabhi Aggarwal
470. SAYEDA UROOJ
Community Participation in the Targeted Interventions
Programme for HIV/AIDS Prevention : A study of NGOs in Delhi.
Supervisor : Dr. Neera Agnimitra